I came to Calvin Edward & Company because I wanted to set up a private foundation to provide medical supplies for indigent patients. I had no idea what to do, or even where to start, and didn't realize that just setting up a foundation is not that easy. As my consultant, Calvin shepherded me through the process from beginning to end, including helping me determine which type of nonprofit structure was right for me.

Calvin also acted as my middleman to interface with key people, such as the nonprofit lawyer he selected to help us. Acting as a middleman may not be his normal role in his day-to-day course of business, but his willingness was critical to getting this nonprofit set up so we could start helping people. I'm a pharmacist and completely booked all day in the pharmacy. When would I have time to do things like interview and interface with lawyers? Calvin did it all for me.

I had the money, and knew what I wanted to do, but there was no way I could have done it without assistance from Calvin Edwards & Company. Calvin has my thanks, and my respect.
